THE

MILESTONE

OF 1934

To

Mr. James Duncan Phillips

we dedicate the Milestone of 1934

Through Mr. Phillips' interest in the New England colonial history and in the historical background of Essex County, he first became interested in Governor Dummer Academy. The traditions of the Academy, its history, and the history of the Dummer family made this interest permanent. Because of his enthusiasm for the School he was elected to the Board of Trustees a decade ago. Throughout all his years of connection with the Academy he has shown a remarkable enthusiasm, and has been influential in making it a success.

We feel that Mr. Phillips has done more for the School, and has given his support with more enthusiasm than any other man not actually engaged in work at the Academy. The boys know him, and the faculty know him not only as a frequent visitor or a speaker at meetings, or since 1933, as the President of the Board of Trustees, but also as a host, and always as an enthusiastic and valuable supporter. We all appreciate his generous support, his enthusiasm, and his ever increasing activity in school projects.

George W. Adams

Mr. Adams is among the distinguished alumni of the Academy. He has been a friend and neighbor all his life, and attended the School in 1869. Eighty years of age, and one of the oldest graduates, he is a cultured gentleman, acquainted with the classic languages Greek, Hebrew, and Latin. He is also a naturalist, an antiquarian, a craftsman, and a philosopher. Among his relatives were the poets Whittier and Longfellow. Seventy-five of his family have attended the Academy; two being headmasters, and two trustees.

His house, "The Highfields," was the home of a school founded previous to 1760, and the direct forerunner of the present Academy. It was built in the late 17th Century and is a good example of early Colonial architecture. His estate is a farm, the ancestral home of his family. A good example of his classical training is his push-cart, appropriately named "Sysyphus" for the Greek mythological toiler.

Today Mr. Adams is almost a tradition at the Academy. For years he has kept the Academy bees, and attends all Vesper Services. He is the friend of all the boys and masters. We appreciate his kindness to the school, we admire his culture, and we enjoy his friendship.

History of the New England Family of William Dummer

The history of the Dummer family in England goes back to the beginning of the 12th century. In Penne Domer, Co. Somerset, and in Dummer, Co. Hants, are ancient monuments of this family. Later they lived near Southampton, at a place called Bishopstoke, where Richard Dummer was born in 1591. He came to New England with his wife, Mary, in the ship Whale, arriving 26 May 1632.

Richard Dummer first lived in Roxbury, where he built a mill in 1633. The next year he moved into Boston, and on 6 May 1635 received a grant of 500 acres of land "at the Falls" in Newbury. In 1636 he joined the early settlers of Newbury, and became a Freeman on 22 May 1639. His farm in the present town of Byfield became the country home of a grandson, Lieut. Governor William Dummer, and is now the site of Governor Dummer Academy. Richard was a Magistrate of the Colony, one of the largest landholders, and probably the richest man in the Province. In company with Saltonstall and Sewall he imported cattle, horses, sheep and fruit trees for the new Colony. The first grist mill of Newbury was built by Richard and John Spencer at the "Falls," the head of tide water on the Parker River.

Richard was also prominent in Church affairs, and in the controversy regarding discipline, which so long agitated the First Parish of Newbury, he took part against the Ruling Elders, Parker and Noyes, and was one of the Ruling Elders elected to manage the affairs of the Church. He earlier became greatly involved because of his sympathy with Rev. John Wheelwright and Mrs. Anne Hutchinson in the Antinomian Controversy, and sided with Sir Harry Vane against Governor Winthrop. When Winthrop was victorious, Richard was left out of the Magistracy, and on 20 Nov. 1637 was ordered with others to deliver to the Constable at Newbury his guns, swords, pistols, powder, shot and matches under the Disarming Act. Greatly displeased Richard went to England, only to return in 1638 on the ship Bevis.

Richard Dummer's wife, Mary, died soon after they settled in Newbury, leaving an only child, Shubael, born 17 Feb. 1636. He graduated from Harvard College in 1656, and preceded Samuel or "Faithful" Moody as the minister of York. This Samuel Moody was the grandfather of Samuel Moody, the first Headmaster of Governor Dummer Academy. Shubael was killed by Indians, 25 Jan. 1692, while mounting his horse at his own door at York. His wife and son were taken prisoners in this same Indian attack. She died soon afterward, and the son was never again heard from.

In 1643/4 Richard married Mrs. Francis Burr. She was the widow of Rev. Jonathan Burr, formerly Rector of Rickengall in Suffolk, England, and later an associate of Richard Mather of Dorchester. By his second wife Richard had five children, William, Jeremiah, Nathaniel, Hannah and Richard. He and his wife lie buried near the "trayneing green" in Newbury. Their gravestones bear the following inscriptions: "Richard Dummer, Esq. Died December y^e^ 14th 1679 in his 88th year," and "Mrs. Francis Dummer died in the 70th year of her Age being the 19th day of November 1682."

Of Richard Dummer's five children by his second wife, William and Nathaniel died without marrying. The youngest son, Richard, Jr., married Elizabeth Appleton, and is the ancestor of Joseph N. Dummer, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of Governor Dummer Academy. The daughter, Hannah, married Rev. James Allen, pastor of the First Church of Boston (Founded 1630). Later ministers of this Church, Thomas Foxcroft and Charles Chauncy, were named as the first Trustees of Governor Dummer Academy, along with Nathaniel Dummer, a son of Richard Jr.

Jeremiah, the second son of Richard Dummer by his second wife, was born at Newbury on 14 Sept. 1645. Shortly before he was fourteen he was sent to Boston for an eight-years' apprenticeship to John Hull the Silversmith and Master of the Mint. Hull lived on the south-west corner of the present Washington Street and Temple Place, and his silver shop and mint were probably near by. After his apprenticeship Jeremiah set up business for himself, and became a notable silversmith whose pieces are highly valued by collectors. He made five standing cups and a tankard for the communion table of the First Church of Boston. These pieces were given by various people, as was the custom in those days, and are now on exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. Of most interest is a cup inscribed as follows: "Ex dono A D se: Test^m^ J A" The initials are for Anna Dummer, wife of Jeremiah, and Joshua Atwater, her father.

On 8 June 1709 the Connecticut Assembly enacted a bill providing for the printing of bills of credit on the Colony, because of the great scarcity of money. Jeremiah Dummer was commissioned to print this money in suitable sums from two shillings to five pounds to the value of 10,000 pounds, from plates presumably engraved by himself. The colonists, however, had the custom of raising the amounts stated on these bills, and on 11 June 1713 the General Assembly instructed Jeremiah to alter the plates, adding to each a creature to represent the amount, i.e., 2 shillings a dove, 5 shillings a fox, 10 shillings a lamb, etc. This was done and an additional 20,000 pounds taken off.

Evidence has come to light in the last decade making it probable that Jeremiah Dummer was the first native-born Massachusetts painter. His interest in art may have come through the portraits of his sons, William and Jeremiah Jr., by the popular English court painter Sir Godfrey Kneller. He apparently taught himself how to paint, copying Kneller's style, and in this must have been aided by his long experience in the design and engraving of his silver. He is said to have painted portraits of himself and his wife, and of his brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. John Coney. He may have painted the portraits of his son William and his wife Katherine now in the Mansion House at Governor Dummer Academy.

In 1672 Jeremiah Dummer married Anna, the daughter of Joshua Atwater, a mercer formerly of New Haven. Jeremiah received as a marriage portion from his father-in-law a house, garden and warehouse on King (State) Street at the corner of Mackrell Lane (Kilby Street), which became his Boston home. Their children that grew to maturity were William, Jeremiah Jr., Ann, and Samuel. Jeremiah held a number of minor public offices, was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and a deacon of the First Church of Boston. He died 15 May 1718 in his seventy-third year, and was buried in the Dummer tomb (No. 168) in the Granary Burying Ground.

Ann, the only daughter of Jeremiah Dummer, married John Powell on 12 May 1714, soon after he came to New England from Edenhope, Parish of Mainstone, Co. Montgomery, Wales. They had four children, John Jr., Ann, William and Jeremiah. Ann's eldest brother William with others formed a company to settle territory they owned at North Yarmouth, Maine. John Powell was made clerk of this company, and went to North Yarmouth where he died in 1741. Ann's portrait was painted by Copley in 1764, the year of her death.

Jeremiah Dummer Jr. was usually called Jeremy, and as such signed his will. He was born in Boston in 1681. He was graduated from Harvard College in 1699, and according to President Increase Mather was by far the best scholar of his time. He remained in residence there until April 1701, and in July 1702 arrived in Holland where he entered the University of Leyden. On 3 Feb. 1703 Professor Hermann Witsius of the University of Leyden signed a certificate to the effect that "Jeremias Dummer Anglus Americanus" had under him completed the philosophical and theological studies which he had so happily begun in his own country. He emigrated to the neighboring University of Utrecht, where after examinations he was granted the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. on 13 Feb. 1703. About a year later he returned to Boston and preached for a few months. He published in 1704, "A Discourse on the Holiness of the Sabbath Day," with an admiring preface by the elder Mather. Jeremy was not popular as a preacher, and in the fall of 1708 he returned to England to study law and politics. On 11 Nov. 1710 he was appointed agent of the Massachusetts Bay Colony thru the aid of Sir William Ashurst. He served the Colony well for eleven years, and in 1715 wrote his famous pamphlet "The Defense of the New England Charters," that won for him the gratitude of that and later generations.

Jeremy Dummer was also agent for the Connecticut Colony at London, and in 1713 was active in securing gifts for the Collegiate School that had been organized at Saybrook in 1701. As a result of his efforts nearly 1000 volumes of considerable value were sent from England in 1714-15, and Elihu Yale was among a notable list of donors. In Jan. 1718 Cotton Mather wrote Elihu Yale urging his financial support of the College that was now building in New Haven. As a result of this application, and further urging from Jeremy, there arrived at Boston in Aug. 1718 a large box of books, a portrait of the King, and East India goods that were sold for more than 562 pounds. At the fall commencement in 1718 the grateful trustees gave the name of Yale College to the School.

Jeremy Dummer died in England on 19 May 1739. He was buried in West Ham in Essex, and the following inscription is on his gravestone: "The Remains of Jeremiah Dummer of New England, Esq^{r}., distinguished for his excellent life of probity and humanity. His age 58, 1739." His will dated 7 June 1738 describes himself as Jeremy Dummer (and so signed it) late Agent of His Majestie's Provinces of Massachusetts and Connecticut in New England and now resident in Plaistow in Essex. In the opening paragraph he asks "that God won't afflict me in another world for some folly I have committed in this in common with the rest of mankind, but rather that he will graciously consider the frail and weak frame which he gave me, and remember that I was but dust." After making various gifts he states: "To my brother Dummer of Newberry, 20 pounds, New England money, to distribute among the poor Indian squaws that may come a begging at his door."

William Dummer was born in Boston in 1677, presumably in his father's house on State Street. Little is known about his early life and education. He was a Constable in Boston in 1713. On 26 April 1714 he married Katherine, the twelfth child of Governor Joseph Dudley. William went to England, and was at Plymouth acting as Commissioner for the Massachusetts Bay Colony. In 1716 he was appointed Lieut. Governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony thru the interest of Sir William Ashurst. He returned to take part in the government of his native Colony at a time of high political excitement. His father-in-law Governor Joseph Dudley had just retired from office after an uneasy administration of fourteen years. The party spirit that sprang up in Massachusetts with the advent of the new charter was daily getting stronger. Samuel Shute had just been appointed as Dudley's successor. He was nominally a Puritan in his religious views, and was not unwelcome in the Colony. But he was a military man, believing in strict obeyance of orders. His instructions from the crown required that he should insist upon a fixed annual salary. To this the sturdy colonists objected, saying it would make the Governor too independent. There were other causes of disagreement mainly from financial questions, and legislation on the currency. The Governor and the House battled for seven years, during which time he had not gained one inch. Finally on 1 Jan. 1723 the discomfited Colonel suddenly sailed for England, and although nominally governor for six years longer, he never came back.

Such were the circumstances under which William Dummer was called to act as Chief Magistrate of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. His alliance with the powerful but unpopular Dudleys, his friendly intimacy with Shute, his acknowledged loyalty to the Crown, were not likely to gain him favor with the colonists. On the other hand he had the advantage of being a New England man of great ability and purest character. He succeeded where his immediate predecessors had failed, and gained the approval and esteem of a people jealous of their rights and liberties, yet without forfeiting the favor of the Crown.

William Dummer continued at the head of the Province until 19 July 1728 when William Burnett was transferred from the chief magistracy of New York and New Jersey to that of Massachusetts. Burnett's sudden death on 7 Sept. 1729 again called Dummer to the chief magistracy until the arrival of Belcher on 11 June 1730, when he retired to private life.

William Dummer was an active member of the Hollis Street Church in Boston and contributed toward the cost of its building. He gave the Church a large folio Bible of the Oxford 1739 edition, now in the keeping of the Massachusetts Historical Society. The inscription on the flyleaf, presumably in the handwriting of the pastor, is as follows: "The gift of His Honor William Dummer, late Lieut. Governor and Commander in Chief of this Province. M. Byles." The First Church of Boston has a silver flagon made by William Cowell Jr. with the following inscription: "Presented to the Church of Christ in Hollis Street under the Pastoral care of the Rev. Mather Byles, D.D.," and below the Dummer Coat of Arms: "By the Honorable William Dummer Esq. Late Lieut. Governor and Commander in Chief of Massachusetts." On the bottom is engraved: "This Humbly Dedicated by William Dummer to the Church of Christ in Hollis Street for the Communion Table—1753."

In 1719 William Dummer was member and Captain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. His Boston home was on the south-east corner of School and Province Streets. The farm at Newbury (Byfield) of the immigrant Richard Dummer came into the possession of William, and about 1720 he built a house there. This fine colonial building, called the Mansion House, was used as his summer residence.

William Dummer died in Boston on 10 Oct. 1761, being 84 years old. He was buried in the Dummer tomb in the Granary Burying Ground. His funeral sermon was preached by Mather Byles on October 16th from the text, "The liberal deviseth liberal things." In the sermon he speaks of the qualities of William Dummer as a magistrate and citizen, but dwells mainly on his excellence as a humble, benevolent, Christian man. The Boston Gazette and Country Journal on October 26th had a long obituary notice dwelling on the many fine qualities of the former Lieut. Governor.

In his will William Dummer set apart his Mansion House and farm in Newbury for the establishment of a school to stand forever on the farm. The property was given in trust to Rev. Thomas Foxcroft and Rev. Charles Chauncy, ministers of the First Church in Boston, and Nathaniel Dummer of Newbury. In 1762 a small school building was erected, and in 1763 the school was opened with Samuel Moody as the first Master. Formal incorporation followed on 1 Oct. 1782, and Governor Dummer Academy continues today the oldest boys' boarding school in the United States. The original school house is still there, and the beautiful Mansion House now serves as the home of the Headmaster.

EDITOR'S FOREWORD

Following the policies of last year we have endeavored to make the 1934 MILESTONE even more representative of the students, the Academy, and the colonial significance of the Dummer family. We are again indebted to Mr. Calvin Eldred for a particularly fine article concerning the immediate forebears of Lieutenant-Governor Dummer's family. We are again printing sketches of the familiar landmarks of the School drawn by the students. However, most especially we have tried to present a more informal group of pictures of the students' life, and life on the campus.

The Football Season

Mr. Jacob
Coach

The 1933 football season was very successful in a striking contrast with that of the previous year. This year's team, combining real power with its fine spirit, was able to win six out of eight games. The team owes much of its success to Richard Segler, who was a staunch leader and set an excellent example of fight, drive, and spirit for his teammates. Captain Segler has played on the team his four years at school, and has been captain for the last two years.

Captain Segler led his squad against much opposition this season, but both he and the team reaped the benefit of winning many difficult games. The first was played with Tabor Academy and resulted in the first victory for the Governors with a score of 19-6. Frank and Hutchinson were responsible for the goals. The next three contests, one with the Andover Reserves, and one with the Harvard Freshmen Seconds, and one with Browne and Nichols were close and hard-fought games, but resulted in three more victories for the Governors. The Thayer Academy game, one which Mr. Jacob pointed for, and described to the team as being a difficult game, ended in the fifth triumph by the score of 13-7.

The first defeat of the season was taken from the Bowdoin Freshmen in a close combat which concluded with the score of 9-2. The following Saturday the team went to Providence and defeated Moses Brown 12-6.

The last and most important game of the season—a game which everyone in the school is most interested in winning—was played with Deerfield Academy at Deerfield. The game was hard and fast, and many times the Deerfield men threatened the Governors' goal, but the fight which had been with the team all season doubled itself and held the opponents to a single touchdown, the final score being 7-0.

The team was greatly assisted by many good men. Herbert Badger, who played end throughout the season, possessed an untiring drive and turned out to be a star. In the Deerfield game he was considered the out-standing player. Mike Shaw, the other end, had a successful season and contributed much to the team by exercising his ability in snatching passes. John Frank played in the first two games, and scored a touchdown in the Tabor game; but he was laid up for the rest of the season with an injury. Oscar Perkins and James Malcolm held down the tackle positions, and were considered immovable objects. Harrison Bickford and Bill Williamson, the captain-elect for next year, supplied the necessary good passes from center position. Both men were determined football players and aided the team very much. Henry Petri, Bill Mulliken, Walter Comfort, Phelps Holloway, and Paul Comins did some fine work and deserve mention. In the backfield Bill Hutchinson exhibited much fine passing and yard gaining. Clyde Cristman, who played quarterback until he broke his arm, was an excellent strategy man and the team greatly felt his loss. Bill Murphy was a valuable back and scored many times throughout the season. Bob Sommer, who played end last year, was moved to the backfield and did well, scoring in the Moses Brown game.

Paul Rutherford
Manager

Football is a sport which needs not only ability and power, but also fight and spirit. The ability and power must be in each individual player, but they must be developed by the coaching staff. Mr. Jacob, head coach and strategist, offered all his football knowledge to the team, and was well pleased by the way his instructions were presented by his assistants, Mr. Fowle and Mr. Sager, and by the willingness the team expressed to learn these instructions. Mr. Hearn and Mr. Murphy worked laboriously and earnestly wherever they could offer assistance. The team's ability, power, fight, and spirit combined with an excellent coaching staff produced a fine football unit for the 1933 season.

The Hockey Season

Mr. Eames

Although the team had no stars this year, it started from the bottom and improved its playing as the year advanced. Eight games and a great deal of ice afforded ample opportunities to employ all our men. The lack of experienced men was made up in part by a strength in reserves which were as strong as the regulars.

In the first game, with a team of exceptional strength, the Governors came to grief when Noble and Greenough won 7-0 at Dedham. Our men were inexperienced, and if Basil Ridgeway and Clyde Cristman had not done such fine work our opponents might have piled up a higher score. After a long trip to Deerfield, a hard game was played in which we lost 3-0 because no offense was used until the team made an unsuccessful comeback at the end. In this game, Sprague, Peck, Ordway, Lawrence, and Toppan relieved Learned, V. Flint, Hutchinson, and Murphy on the first line; Petri, Holloway, Rutherford, and Cristman did well on defense.

As the team felt the need of a captain before the third game, it elected Paul Rutherford, a man who won his letter last year, and whose steadiness at defense aided in staving off Lawrence Academy in the first home game. In spite of the resistance the team put up, Lawrence was too strong on the attack and beat us 7-1. Bill Hutchinson, promoted to the first line, insured his position by scoring the first goal.

On January 27th, Thayer Academy defeated us 7-1 in a severe snowstorm which made the skating very slow. However, the team improved as the game continued, and on a pass from Red Learned, Gar Rae made a goal.

At Exeter, the team staged a comeback and held the Exeter Seconds to a 1-1 tie. Gar Rae played a good game and made the Governors' score with a hard, fast shot. The spirit of the team had now reached a high point, and the Rivers team bowed 3-1 to us at Brookline. Hutchinson scored twice and Murphy scored again on a pass from Toppan. Ridgeway withstood a continual peppering from the Rivers team and did a nearly perfect job.

Brooks and Belmont Hill Schools beat us 4-2 and 16-0 respectively. Vasmer Flint shot a goal, and Bill Hutchinson, high scorer for the year with twice as many points as his nearest competitor, made the other.

The Basketball Season

Mr. Reagan
Coach

Governor Dummer closed its most successful season in recent years by defeating Deerfield Academy at Deerfield on March ninth. John Frank, veteran center ended his basketball career for the Governors by scoring twenty of the teams' forty-two points. At only one time during the game was the assurance of victory in doubt. This was at the beginning of the third period when Markoski of Deerfield sank three field-goals in rapid succession. The Governors realized their position and through the efforts of John Bemben and Captain Otis Kerr the opponents' lead was soon a matter of the past and the Governors ended the game by winning 42-31.

In the opening game of the season Melrose High School was handily defeated 36-11. The second game of the season was not so successful as might be expected, the Governors being defeated 30-28 by a hard-fighting Lynn Classical High School team. The next four games resulted in victories for the Governors. The Huntington School was defeated by 26-15, Phillips Exeter by 42-33, Cambridge Latin 32-28, Rindge Technical 26-16 and Harvard Junior Varsity 30-21, the last being played in the Indoor Athletic Building in Cambridge.

One of the most exciting games of the season was that played at Andover on February fourteenth. Both teams were evenly matched, and the result of this was a closely contested game, the Governors finally winning, 26-11. This was followed by an equally fast game with the Harvard Freshman team which was won by the score of 35-31. The next game was with the M.I.T. Freshman team. Herbert Badger, Harrison Bickford and Russell Brewer completed the starting line-up. John Bemben and James Malcolm were substitutes as were Irving Stronach, Seth Baker and Venning Davis. Although the team did not display their usual brilliant style they managed to win 22-19. Two more victories followed the M.I.T. game. These were victories over Salem Normal School and Lawrence Academy by respective scores of 54-33 and 44-22.

The team's success was due in great part to John Frank's individual brilliance, to Captain Kerr's leadership, and to Mr. Reagan, the coach, who did a remarkable job in holding the team together and in always improving their style of play.

The Fencing Season

Mr. Allen
Coach

The 1934 season of the fencing team, under the direction of Mr. Allen, was the most successful one in several years at Governor Dummer. The activity was introduced three years ago under Mr. Allen and has since been climbing steadily in the point of view of meets won.

This year the team met with good fortune in being able to practice in the Ould Newbury Golf Club, with the result that extra practice time, sorely needed,was afforded to the squad.

The first meet of the year was away, at Andover, where the timely win of Drew King in the final match gave the Governors the victory, 5-4. King at that time, and again later, pulled the matches out of the fire when things looked black for the Academy. The next meet was at Harvard on February 24th where the Governors were defeated by the Freshman team, 6-3. This meet was also excellent and also made history for the school, as it was the first time that the fencers had scored on Harvard. John Hinchman and Harmon Hall accounted for the points. A return match with Andover was won by the Governors by a larger score than the first of the two, 6-3. Hinchman, King, Hall, and Wentworth Smith each won, the first two named winning two bouts. The season was climaxed by the easy defeat of the M.I.T. Freshmen on March 7th, with the score, 8-1.

The prospects for next year are not at all bright, for almost all of the squad graduates this year. King, Hall, Smith, and Hinchman, mainstays of the squad are lost, and others going are John Bassette, George Davis, Raymond Dunn, William North, and Ernest Foss.

The Baseball Season

Mr. Eames

Although graduation took a heavy toll from last year's baseball squad, Captain Otis Kerr, Minot Shaw, and Bob Sommer have managed to form a strong nucleus for this year's team. Shaw has been retained at first base, while Kerr has been shifted to the catcher's position, and Sommer has been transformed into a pitcher. The infield at present consists of Shaw at first base, Venning Davis at second, William Murphy at third, and William Hutchinson at shortstop. The last three are new boys in school this year. In the outfield there is Clyde Cristman, Perry Reynolds, a veteran of last year's squad, and either John Bemben regular pitcher, or Bob Sommer. Other boys on the squad who are making rapid progress are John Hinchman, a first-baseman, Aaron Goodale, a promising out-fielder, and John Graham.

Groton was the first team to furnish opposition for the Governors. The game was won 9-6 with Shaw giving a good exhibition of fielding, and Bemben and Cristman hitting well. This encounter gave the coaches some idea of their material for the rest of the season. Milton Academy handed the team its first defeat by a 7-1 score. The Governors were somewhat outclassed but nevertheless played their best.

The team began to show signs of improvement against Roxbury Latin, although they lost 5-4. Captain Kerr and Hutchinson changed positions in this game and the result was a more effective battery. A 19-3 drubbing by the Harvard Freshmen failed to dishearten the Governors, for the following Saturday Melrose High School was overcome by a 10-9 score. Hard hitting was evinced by Sommer, Reynolds, and Kerr. Rivers School was met and overwhelmed by 15-2. This game brought out the potentialities of the team as shown by the hitting of Kerr, Hutchinson, and Davis. A 21-9 victory over Belmont Hill gave even more definite proof that the team had great power.

Raymond Jones
Manager

As there are nine remaining games, an optimistic outlook would not be out of order. John Bemben gives real promise of being a first class pitcher, while Sommer is a worthy substitute. The coaches, Mr. Eames, Mr. Fowle, and Mr. Hearn, are sparing no effort in developing the team, and there is every reason to believe they will be successful.

Coach

Due to the erection of a board track by the students last fall, the track men not engaged in other sports were able to obtain practice during the Winter term. This practice has given the team a foundation never before obtained, and has more evenly balanced the power in field and running events. As usual the team's greatest strength is in the field events, but there are several good runners. It is hoped that with this more even balance the team will be stronger than that of last year.

Mulliken, Earnshaw, and McPhail run in both the 100- and the 200-yard dashes. Mulliken is very speedy and the outstanding short distance man. In the quarter-mile, Dunton, a veteran of last year, and Hanson are the runners. Fernandez, who has shown fine form and stamina, and Harris are running the half-mile. In the hurdles Davidson, who won a first in the Danvers meet, and Robert Kitchell are the representatives. The shot-put is particularly strong this year with Captain John Frank, Richard Segler, and James Malcolm registering around 46 feet. In the discus Frank, Segler, and Brewer will offer keen competition to opponents. Brewer, Segler and Mulliken are in the broad jump, and Hall and Miller are showing good form in the high jump.

In the Danvers meet the running times were slow due to a wet track, but there was a lot of potential strength evident. Davidson won the 120-yard hurdles in 16 1-5 seconds. Mulliken and Segler took a first and a second in the 100-yard dash. The Governors won in the mile, with Peabody and Comfort taking a first and second respectively. Mario Fernandez won the 880-yard run, and McPhail took a third in the dashes. In the field events John Frank took a first, and Segler placed second. Brewer won the broad jump, and he placed third in the high jump.

The team shows a lot of potential strength, and it should give a good account of itself in the New Hampshire and Amherst meets. It is expected that Frank, the Captain, will turn in the best record of the year. Segler is again a high scorer, and among the first year men Mulliken should prove himself valuable. The team should turn in a very creditable season with this material; and with Mr. Sager as head coach, Mr. Jacob and Mr. Allen assisting, some new star ought to develop.

The Golf Season

Irving Stronach
Captain

This year golf proved to be one of the most popular sports. More boys desired to play than could be accommodated. Among the veterans to return was Harrison Bickford, who is playing number one for the second year. William Williamson, a contender for a place on last year's team, is among the first eight. The 1934 captaincy is capably filled by a member of last year's squad, Irving Stronach. Stronach, although not the outstanding player, is steady and capable. The new-comers to golf at Governor Dummer are Peter Carpenter, the winner of the Fall Tournament for the cup donated by Mr. Edward Underwood, Joseph Williamson, one of the longest hitters on the team, James Walsh, and David Quigley.

There are six matches scheduled for the season, and all with fairly difficult opponents. The first match, with St. Paul's, resulted in a tie score of three to three. The hardest match was with Phillips Exeter, the score being Governor Dummer 1, Phillips Exeter 8. Other matches will be those played with Thayer Academy and with Ould Newbury Golf Club. The last match is with Swampscott High School and is to be June 2nd.

Of the first eight players, five are returning next year; therefore the team of this year is really a good nucleus for a team that will be experienced and developed for next year. Of those returning Carpenter is the most consistent, but if both the Williamsons steady down as they should, and Walsh and Learned attain greater scoring power, the team should be one of the best ever produced by the School.

The Tennis Season

Basil Ridgeway
Captain

The tennis season of 1934 at Governor Dummer, although delayed by inclement weather and the poor condition of the courts, has all the prospects of being a successful one. During the time the team has been incapacitated by lack of courts occasional trips to the Longwood Cricket Club have afforded the players opportunity for practice.

The material at the outset of the season seemed plentiful enough, but it presently became evident that a number four man of sufficient ability to pair with one of the first three was needed. At this time Henry Graves is filling that position, and gives indication of developing enough to preserve the balance of the group. The captain, Basil Ridgeway, playing at the number one position, is undoubtedly one of the finest players the School has had; in fact, he at present holds the fifth position in the New England junior tennis ratings. For the second and third positions there are Badger and Underwood, who are so evenly matched that they are in constant competition for the upper of these places. Laird Covey, a veteran of the 1933 squad, is at present giving Graves strong competition for the fourth place.

Although the three first men are lost by graduation this year, the younger aspirants are fairly strong and should produce a good team for next year. No matter what the strength of the team will be at that time, it will probably be a long time before there is one man of six feet six and another of six-four on the same squad.

The Cum Laude Society

The establishment of a Chapter of Cum Laude at Governor Dummer Academy is a mark of signal honor. The Society is to secondary school scholarship what Phi Beta Kappa is to the collegiate world. It is the oldest honorary society of wide national recognition operating in secondary schools. Behind it is a history of almost thirty years, the parent chapter, that of the Tome School in Baltimore, having been founded in 1906. There is at present a chapter roll of seventy-seven active chapters; in the vicinity of South Byfield there are chapters at Andover, Exeter, Watertown High School, Thayer, Tabor, Belmont Hill, and St. Paul's.

The purpose of Cum Laude is to encourage and to reward high scholarship. Each chapter is permitted to establish its own requirements for qualification to the Society; and, aware of that, the charter members of the Governor Dummer chapter have recently published the By-laws, which contain the requirements for admission to this chapter. Satisfaction of these and election to the Society should indubitably indicate scholastic ability of unusual distinction. The most pertinent of the necessary qualifications are as follows:

(from the By-laws)

5. To be eligible for membership a student shall:

   A. Have attained a general average of 80% for his senior year.

   B. Stand in the first fifth of his class.

6. The mere fulfillment of the qualifications listed under By-law 5 shall not automatically determine a student's eligibility for election. In addition, a three-fourths vote of the faculty members of the chapter shall be necessary for election.

7. In electing new members the faculty members of the chapter shall be urged to consider the following factors in determining qualifications for membership:

   A. The nature of the courses.

   B. The number of courses repeated.

   C. The effort expended by the student.

   D. The record of the student at Governor Dummer or at other schools prior to his senior year.

   E. The record of the student in the College Board Examinations.

   F. Marked deficiency in particular subjects.

The election of students to the Society is to take place toward the end of each year, and it is planned at present to make the initiation an established part of the Commencement period.

Governor Dummer Academy Building Campaign

The Building Campaign at Governor Dummer is one of the most unusual of its kind. The campaign started in a natural sequence to the other projects carried out by the boys of the school.

In the spring of 1932, when the time drew near for the Senior Class to leave the school, the traditional present from the class to Governor Dummer was discussed. Realizing that some gift in which they had more part than the mere purchase would be appreciated, the boys went out to one end of the athletic field, which at that time was unusable because of muddiness, and spent months of labor installing a drainage system with their own hands, in order that the classes following them might have an even better chance than they had at improving their athletic ability. This was the beginning of a spirit that has risen with the student body since then.

Six boys, gossiping one cold night near the first of December, hit upon the plan that a new building might be erected. This followed the discussion of the inadequacy of the present accommodations in the dining room, meeting room, and kitchen. Realizing that if this idea of erecting a new building was to go any further they must have some aid and advice, the six boys, George Tryon, Richard Segler, William Williamson, Randolph Tucker, Harrison Bickford, and Paul Rutherford, went to Mr. Cobb to place their idea before him, keeping the whole matter a secret from Mr. Eames and the student body until a more definite plan was arranged. In this manner the name "Secret Six" was given to these boys.

After much consultation and planning the idea was placed before Mr. Eames. Here it met with strong approval, and after more talk a number of boys including Herbert Badger, Gerry Dietz, Ernest Foss, Nicholas Hatheway, Raymond Jones, Minot Shaw, Wentworth Smith, and Edward Underwood were added to the original six. This group constituted the Campaign Committee.

At a special meeting in January, the School learned of the plan through speeches by Mr. Eames, Mr. Cobb, and members of the Secret Six. Later Mr. Eames broached the plan at a meeting of the Board of Trustees, and their approval of it was unanimous.

The next move was to form numerous committees. Each of these committees was headed by a member of the Secret Six and was made up of about fourteen boys. The Committees were Publicity, Alumni, Records, Time Schedule, Building, and Location.

These committees immediately went to work on their different points. Each boy in school was interviewed by the Campaign Committee and given a chance to voice his views on the plan. To climax the whole affair a Campaign Dinner was held the night before the spring vacation, and three speakers, Mr. Phillips of the Board of Trustees, John Young, of the alumni, and Dr. Allan Winter Rowe, as a friend of the School, gave their enthusiastic encouragement to the Campaign.

The Archon

Coming back last fall after the successful year enjoyed by the Archon of last year, we found Robert Sommer at the Editor-in-Chief's position after the resignation of John Frank, who was elected last spring to that office. Accordingly George Tryon moved into the position of Managing Editor, Wentworth Smith became Business Manager, and William North, Associate Editor. With this combination the Archon has been published for this year.

The school paper, for those who are not familiar with it, has been standardized in the last few years to a booklet form of twenty pages, put out entirely by the boys under the supervision of a member of the faculty who was this year, Mr. Benjamin Stone.

The main interest of the Archon is to inform accurately all those who are interested in the various activities of the school life. Therefore over five-sixths of the subscriptions go to parents, alumni, and outside friends, and it is for their use especially that the publication is printed. A definite move was made by the Editors this year, however, to liven up the paper and make it a little more interesting for the boys themselves. This has been done and has been a highly successful step.

This year the Publicity Committee of the Building Campaign thought it advisable to publish a special edition of the Archon for the purpose of informing those previously not connected with the School about its principles, and to let this edition serve as a school catalogue. For this work a special board was named under the chairmanship of Robert Sommer. Many very complimentary remarks have been heard in connection with the edition, and it is felt to be of great value to the campaign in general.

Another outstanding feature of the Archon this year has been the pictures which have been taken by the Camera Club, and which have been more plentiful than for the last two years.

Two other departments have been organized within the staff. William North has created an Alumni page whose purpose has been to collect and publish news which will be of particular interest to alumni readers. Another is a More Briefly column which gives short notes on advance activities, a thing which heretofore had not been done.

The staff is indebted to Mr. Charles Brodhead, who was a teacher of history at Governor Dummer last year, for his feature article on the student life at Oxford, where he is studying; and to Mr. Stephen H. Stackpole of the faculty for his story on the distinguished alumnus, Rufus King. Mr. Scott Paradise of Phillips Academy at Andover also showed generosity in submitting an editorial on the original connection between the two schools, as did Mr. Edgar D. Dunning for his faculty-advising on the special issue.

The editors in particular wish to thank Mr. Stone for his unexcelled guidance in the paper's management, and for his unselfish co-operation in its publication.

The Camera Club

Reorganizing for the second year of its existence, the Governor Dummer Camera Club welcomed the new boys to the School's most recently organized club. Having only a meagre beginning the first year, the Club has had an opportunity this year to build itself up into a more mature group with a sight to the future that cannot be denied. Thus the Club has earned its way into the MILESTONE, and this achievement alone is an example of the fine work done towards a more completely organized stage of development.

The first meeting of the Club this year was held last fall when the organization of the Club's facilities was discussed and laid before the new members. Sixteen boys joined the Club and, under the faculty supervision of Mr. Morey Eames, there were meetings every Sunday night. At a meeting in November George Tryon was elected president, Vasmer Flint, secretary and treasurer, and dues of ten cents a week were originated.

Members immediately found the dark room, which was built last year, to be an ideal place for all sorts of photographic work, and with much enthusiasm they installed some new equipment. Within the Club's use there are two enlargers, developing tanks, photographic trays, and many new shelves as well as new chemicals, with which a great part of the Camera Club's developing and printing is done.

The most unusually hard winter afforded a marvelous opportunity for some winter scenes of the campus, and several artistic rivalries sprang up among the members. This spring also afforded ample opportunity for excellent shots as trips were made in co-ordination with the sketching class to nearby spots of beauty.

One of the main purposes of the Club is to provide the Archon and the MILESTONE with informal campus scenes and athletic action pictures. These have received very favorable comment and have helped these publications a great deal.

The year's activity was brought to a close by a very successful exhibition held in the Noyes Library from March twentieth to June eighth. This display is the second of its kind and much more ambitious than the first. Every entry was enlarged and mounted separately on a piece of white cardboard, sixteen by twenty-two inches, and the pictures are limited to those taken by the boys of the School and by Mr. Morey Eames.

Among the more outstanding of this year's camera men were Mr. Morey Eames, John Davidson, Charles Hanson, Frederic Lovejoy and George Tryon. A great majority of the exhibited pictures were taken by these few, and they deserve credit for the work done this year.

The Outing Club

The Outing Club was started in the winter term of 1931 by one of the younger masters in order to give a small group of boys not interested in other winter sports a chance to get healthful outdoor exercise. Since then it has changed greatly, the boys preferring to use it as an opportunity to take occasional trips to the mountains over week-ends to break the routine of school life. It has been an active, if irregular, sport during the three years of its existence. Pinkham Notch seems to have been the favorite resort, though trips have been made to Mt. Chocorua.

In January of this year a trip was made to Pinkham Notch, this being the longest possible journey to take with comfort; even this entails traveling all of Friday and Sunday afternoons. The Notch is situated at the foot of Mt. Washington near Glen Ellis Falls. These Falls are thought by some of the members, who go for the love of nature rather than of skiing, to be worth the trip in themselves; for generally they are half frozen, or frozen completely with a very thin coat at this time of winter. This year the Club did not climb to Carter Notch as it has done in past years. The snow being newly fallen and about four feet deep, it was deemed advisable to ramble on the side of Wildcat Mountain, which faces Mt. Washington, rather than attempt the long hike to Hermit Lake and Carter Notch, the objective of previous years. This part of the trip occupied most of Saturday, but the evening was left for doubtful movies in a neighboring town. Sunday morning, after eating, the party separated, some to ski on Tuckerman's Ravine Trail, others to see the Falls and the Glen House.

Later this spring it was planned to take a trip to some other nearby mountain for a week-end's hiking.

The Work Squad

During the fall of 1934 the Work Squad, under the guidance of Mr. Dunning and Mr. Kirk, formed the nucleus of workers for building the board track, and laid its foundation. Posts had to be sunk for the entire foundation, then the cross girders and underpinning sawed and nailed, finally the boards themselves laid. Every boy in school contributed to the building of the track; but the Work Squad itself was the mainstay of the workers.

The track is 110 yards long, or sixteen laps to a mile. It has provided a very valuable facility for winter track; and provides practice and training for the major spring track. It has been and will be a valuable agent in producing better runners for the Academy.

In the spring term the Work Squad turned from athletics to landscaping. They are planting fifteen thousand trees to beautify and reforest the Academy grounds. This work, though not so apparently beneficial now, will literally grow to be a valuable asset.

Throughout, the Work Squad has had a certain untiring, ambitious spirit. It has learned the rudiments of surveying, applied geometry, carpentering, and, probably most valuable of all, the benefit of co-operative work.

The Glee Club

The importance of the Glee Club at Governor Dummer may be estimated by the fact that half of the school turned out for the try-outs in November; the majority came through to become members of the 1933-34 Club. In the June graduation of 1933 many members of last year's Club were lost, but the influx of new material more than made up for their loss. With a bounteous amount of new voices the Glee Club developed enough under Mr. Arthur Sager's tutelage to give a creditable account of itself at the Football Banquet.

With the beginning of the winter term the boys and Mr. Sager started to work towards the difficult goal of having a better Club than ever before at Governor Dummer. Three practices a week kept the Club on the way to success, and as early as the Newburyport Concert evidences of the Club's value appeared. The next concert was given at the House in the Pines, and the Club showed remarkable improvement over the previous engagement at Newburyport. On March 14th the Glee Club went to Montclair, N. J., and here reached its peak. This concert was undoubtedly the best ever given by a Glee Club from this School. The Club gave perfect renditions of two most difficult pieces, namely, Adoramus Te by Palestrina and The Prisoner's Chorus from Fidelio by Beethoven. In the seven selections, all of which were well done, the two above mentioned were clearly outstanding.

Coming back from the spring holidays, the Club again went to work to gain its goal of perfection. After a few weeks' practice a concert was given in the Hamilton Town Hall, and the Club did itself justice despite the intervening vacation. On April 27th the organization again rose to a pitch of unusual excellence at the Parish House of the Franklin Street Congregational Church of Manchester, New Hampshire. After giving the usual concert and an encore, the Club was given two curtain calls. The audience would not let the Club off the stage until the singers had exhausted their repertoire, and even then the applause continued long after the boys left the stage.

To Wendell Sargent the Club wishes to extend its thanks for his excellent solo work upon the accordion. He enlivened all programs on which he played and helped in no small way to make the concerts successful.

The Club will bring to an end a most successful season with the usual Commencement Concert on June 8th. This concert offers the parents an opportunity to hear the Glee Club and to appreciate its value as an organization. The merits of Mr. Sager's direction are altogether evident in this year's Club, and to him is given the credit for the outstanding work of this organization during the past season.

Exhibitions and Sketching

Again this year there has been particular interest in art at Governor Dummer. There have been eighteen exhibitions, many of them by well-known artists. Among those to exhibit have been Morgan Dennis and Russell M. Pierce, both showing etchings. There have been numerous exhibitions of oil paintings: marines by John P. Benson; water colors by Frank W. Benson; portraits by Harry Sutton, Jr. and Richard May Ellery; prints by Mons Breidvik; landscapes by Philip H. Little; drawings by Charles Curtiss Allen; harbor scenes by Emile A. Gruppe; water colors by Ralph W. Gray; and oil sketches by N. Morey Eames. Of the last three Mr. Gruppe visited the Academy during the spring term and made a picture of an apple tree in bloom below Mason Cottage, Mr. Gray lent the Archon and the MILESTONE some plates of his pictures to use in publication while his pictures were being shown, one of which is reproduced above this article, and Mr. Eames is the instructor of sketching at the Academy. The Addison Gallery at Andover lent an exhibition, and there was an exchange exhibit with Phillips Academy. One of the most unusual exhibits was a collection of pictures done by fathers of the boys of the Academy. The final exhibition was a "Survey of Paintings" including seventy reproductions of great artists from the Fourteenth Century until the present day.

The climax of the year in art at Governor Dummer is the exhibition of the Sketching Class and the Camera Club during Commencement Week. Last year Seth Martin, James S. Smith, Jr., and David C. Tatman won the first three prizes respectively, and Edward Rayher won a prize in block printing. It is hoped that this year's Academy exhibition will be even larger in scope, for it represents the work in art during the entire year, and each member of the Sketching Class is entering at least one picture.

Commencement of 1933

The Milestone Board hopes that this brief sketch of the Commencement Exercises of 1933 will complete the written record of that year.

The Baccalaureate Service was held as usual at the Chapel at Adelynrood on the afternoon of June fourth. The sermon was delivered by the Reverend Dr. William G. Thayer, retired headmaster of St. Mark's School. Mr. Thayer was assisted by the Reverend Mr. Glenn Tilley Morse, a member of the Board of Trustees. Following the service, the Headmaster and Mrs. Eames entertained at tea at the Mansion House. During the afternoon an exhibition of the work of the Sketching Classes was held in the Noyes Library.

In contrast to the customary recitation of poems for the Ambrose Prizes for speaking, a new type of elocutionary competition was introduced. The speakers were coached by Mr. Charles D. Brodhead. The contest took the form of a series of incidents leading up to the financial crisis of March, 1933. Following this, President Roosevelt was shown in conference with members of his Cabinet and Congress discussing the policies of the New Deal. Roger Wood, impersonating the President, was awarded the first prize, while Paul Dillingham and Jacob Bond, both impersonating Senators, were awarded second and third prizes respectively.

The Senior Sing took place on Thurday, June eighth. The entire student body joined in singing the songs which had been sung in the evening meetings throughout the year. The graduating class then sang the Senior Song while walking around the historic Milestone.

The Graduating Exercises took place on Friday, June ninth. The address was given by President Kenneth C. M. Sills of Bowdoin College. Before President Sills' address, Mr. Eames awarded prizes which had been won by members of the student body during the school year. Mr. James Duncan Phillips of the Board of Trustees awarded the diplomas. After the Graduating Exercises the Musical Clubs made their final appearance of the year at a concert given at Lang Gymnasium. A baseball game with the Brooks School in the afternoon was attended by a large gathering.

The Alumni Dinner was the final event of the day. The toastmaster was the Reverend Mr. Carroll Perry of Ipswich. The speakers were Dr. Allan Winter Rowe of Boston, Dr. George E. Vincent of the Rockefeller Foundation, and President Sills.

THE JUDGE WHITE ENGLISH PRIZE — Wentworth Smith

Awarded by the Honorable Alden Perley White for meritorious work in English.

THE AMBROSE PRIZES

Presented by the late Mr. Fred M. Ambrose, member of the Class of 1876 and former trustee of the Academy, to the winners of the annual prize speaking contest:

First Prize	Roger W. Wood
Second Prize	Paul A. Dillingham
Third Prize	J. Waldo Bond

THE THORNDIKE HILTON CUP — Andrew R. Linscott

Presented by the Class of 1919 in memory of their classmate, Thorndike Hilton, to the ranking student of the graduating class.

THE MORSE FLAG — Calvin P. Eldred, 3rd.

Presented by the Reverend Glenn Tilley Morse to that member of the graduating class whose record in all respects met with the highest approval of the faculty.

THE MASTER'S PRIZE — Albert E. Pennock

Presented by Mrs. Edward A. Eames to the member of the graduating class who by his unselfishness and sportsmanship has best exemplified the spirit of the school.

Art Prizes

Awarded by the Academy for the best work of the year in the subjects as listed:

First Prize Painting	Seth R. Martin
Second Prize Painting	James S. Smith, Jr.
Block Print Prize	Edward Rayher
Line Drawing Prize	David C. Tatman

Special Prizes

To Harry Coburn Churchill, Dana Carroll Douglass, Jr., and Richard Leonard Segler, a group of three boys who are distinguished among their fellows, not only for certain manly qualities of strength, courage, and the capacity for work, but equally for such gentlemanly attributes as courtesy, good cheer, and instant generosity.

To Justin Mackenzie Smith, always a pleasant and agreeable boy, who during his senior year discovered new qualities of force and determination which enabled him to improve the standard of his scholastic work.

To James Albert Hessian, who during his six years of association with the School has always striven loyally and successfully for its best interests.

To Gilmore Lloyd Farr and John Wilson Hosmer, who have during their school course improved in attitude, industry, and self-control more than any other members of their class.

To Stephen Day Ward, a boy who in one school year has won the warm affection and high respect of boys and masters.

To David Conner Tatman, a boy of splendid scholarship, pleasant personality, and wide cultural interests, who after living three years in a boys' boarding school has nevertheless succeeded in keeping a genuine and refreshing individuality.

To George Henry Tryon, 3rd., whose hard work and high scholarship command our respect, and whose initiative and enthusiasm have this year created a new and worthwhile student organization.

To William Crain Bauer, who is distinguished among the underclassmen for his good nature, his good sense, and his unlimited capacity for friendship.

To Donald Lawrence whose leadership among the underclassmen is owing as much to his natural enthusiasm and to his sensitive regard for others as to his all-round abilities.

Acknowledgments

The MILESTONE wishes to express its thanks to those who, although not actively engaged in work on the staff, have supported and contributed to the MILESTONE. The editors are especially indebted

To Mr. Calvin P. Eldred, who has contributed another of his particularly fine historical articles.

To the Camera Club, which has given the yearbook the best group of photographs it has yet had.

To the Sketching Classes, who have done some very interesting sketches of the buildings around the campus.

To John Davidson, who has aided the staff by obtaining and developing photographs for the yearbook.

To Mr. Harold A. Johnson of the Andover Press who has been obliging in his cooperation.

To Mr. Joseph Snyder whose aid in securing advertisements has been invaluable.

And to Edward Underwood and the Milestone Dance Committee, whose successful efforts enabled the MILESTONE to print an unusual number of pictures.

THE SCHOOL STORE

Housed in one of the oldest private boarding school buildings in this country is the School store. The present structure was originally a large woodshed which served Governor Dummer's farmhouse, and it was remodeled to serve as a schoolhouse in 1763.

When the original farmhouse was destroyed by fire about fifty years ago, the "Old Schoolhouse" was untouched. It has served several summers as a chapel for the use of Adelynrood. It has also served as the School chapel under Dr. Ingham.

Privately Printed

The 1934 Milestone is a fine example of a limited edition, privately printed.

The staff of this book and an increasing number of other private publishers have been turning to organizations which specialize in the production of fine brochures, magazines, and privately printed books. For more than a century The Andover Press has served such publishers, planning and printing class annuals, descriptive booklets, genealogies, and other quality publications.
